ESSENCE of the Rob Owen Class 1-5 RBTI Transcription

This is the "ESSENCE of Rob Owen's Class 1-5 RBTI Transcription." Essentially, it lists three short pertinent segments from each of 700+ RBTI-important entries. They are arranged alphabetically with a Table of Contents. Each entry then points to connections to other entries. In some cases, a full lengthy discussion is required, such as for CALCIUM and CARBON. Further, there are some entry terms that have only a single mention, or none, and there are others, such as water, that occur so often it is impractical to create a full cross-linking. You may go to this website to "look inside the book" and get an idea of its first 35 pages. <http://www.brixman.com/essence-preview.html>

RBTI Desk Reference 2014

Carey A. Reams originated the Reams Biological Theory of Ionization. Over the years, many inconsistencies appeared in the literature as the teaching was handed down to new generations. This manual is intended to serve as a critique of those teachings. The method chosen is to compare terms from the lectures, transcripts, and published works of those who have struggled to enlighten eager students hungry to learn how the body really works.

The Reams-Ag Critique & Comparison 2015

Carey Reams taught an agriculture of lasting importance. His lessons about crops of amazing quality and unheard of yields were spread via dozens and dozens of farmer seminars around the USA from the 1950s until his death in 1985. Generally recognized as the father of the Brix concept for measuring crop quality, his steadfast wisdom against the degenerative nature of much of conventional agriculture is still eagerly sought today. This critique is an effort to compare Reams' original lessons with the books, audiotapes, transcripts, and other publications of those who are carrying the banner of Reams-Ag in the 21st century. Arranged by keywords with a table of contents, clarifying additions, etc...
